Nancy completed a residency in orthopaedic surgery at UW-Madison Hospitals and Clinics. She then relocated to West Virginia where she established Mountaineer Orthopaedics and Sports Medicine, providing comprehensive orthopaedic care regionally. She also handled athletic coverage for Fairmont State University.

In adapting to the changes in healthcare, Nancy has subsequently taught and provided trauma care for facilities in WI, MN, WV, IN, NH and TX. She is now retired after a 35 year career.

Nancy believes that DHS served as an excellent springboard for the rigor and demands of surgical patient care. Small town values can be underestimated in their role to flexibility and success in any pursuit.
